Systemic, Structural and Family Constellations may help!

The Systemic, Structural and Family Constellation work, inspired by Bert Hellinger, allows you to observe events that occurred in past generations that impact your life experience in the present. Hidden family issues or events may create imbalance or disharmony in your family "field", and these disturbances frequently lead to illness, depression, suicides, relationship difficulties, accidents, or career problems in the present. Using this approach, you are also able to view other systemic forces that may be operative in your life. We discover the nature of the hidden dynamics by setting up constellations using representatives to stand in the place of your family members or other elements. A constellation provides a "living map" of impactful issues. A progressed constellation follows which ushers you along your path to balance, order, harmony and healing.

Your participation as an observer or representative in the group may be as valuable to you as creating your personal constellation. Our temporary workshop community provides a safe place for the soul shifts that occur when all parts of your system are acknowledged and given their rightful places. Each of us, whether participant or observer, taps into the information that exists in the field and benefits from the knowledge.
